Clinical Psychology in Community and Social Setting

Healing the wounds: the role of the psychologist in ethno-clinical approach

November 18th, 2022 | 9.00 am - 1.00 pm
Classroom 1, Sant'Agostino

In this seminar we will discuss about the role and the “positioning” of clinical psychologists in social and institutional contexts, with a focus on working with migrant patients and families.

Through group discussion and participatory activities, we will analyze the ethno-clinical approach, the use of the ethno-clinical device and its different possible applications in the clinical psychologist's work.

Greater attention will be given to the concept of “cultural decentralization” as a fundamental dimension in clinical intervention.

To attend the meeting, it is mandatory to register and fill out this form
Attendance will be certificated as part of the traineeship activities
